In the last few weeks as she prepared to "exit this world", Pat was overcome with gratitude for all the love expressed by her dear friends near and far. She loved to open the mail each afternoon and read all the love notes, poems, prayers, and cards in her honor. When family came to stay, friends visited, or flowers were delivered, she would say, "I just can't believe all the love filling this house."

Throughout this challenge, she said several times a day, "This is a house of JOY!" When her voice wasn't available, she offered a smile or a wink. Her last weeks were filled with music, family, faith, and love. Thank all of you who brought joy into her life, recently or over the years. She asked that you continue to celebrate her life and "to express more love throughout the world". Patty Stout, Granddaughter##imported-begin##Patty Stout##imported-end##
