You're in my dreams I meant and we fell asleep hugging each other at the cottage

Tina Mcdade January 7 at 4:23 PM

2 yrs seems just like yesterday yet, everyday I see your smile feel your loss keep your love I'll never forget when you came at the cottage and we just played together and I was able to wrap my arms around you and give you big hugs you saw the snow ❄️ and helped Joshua build a snowman in my heart I feel a better daughter I should have been had I known back then how fast time flies I would of taken it more seriously I also remember the time we attended church together at our Church then 2 yrs later it was so sad I had to smile when I myself was dying inside the day of the funeral I didn't know what to do but boy did I feel it when I no longer had my best friend to talk to to laugh with to share recipes with...your my thoughts my heart & my dreams I love you and that love will never end...momma my best friend

"Two years ago today, I lost my beautiful mother, Diana. Not a day goes by that I don't feel the weight of your absence, yet I also feel the warmth of your love surrounding me in ways big and small. You taught me kindness, strength, and the importance of family—and those lessons guide me every day. I miss your laughter, your hugs, your voice, and the simple moments we shared that now feel so precious. Life feels a little emptier without you here, but I carry your spirit with me in everything I do. Thank you, Mom, for loving me so fiercely, for shaping who I am, and for giving me memories that I will hold forever. I love you, always, and I miss you more than words could ever express. ❤️
