“ Sugarloaf 1976 - she got me to try food I would never have touched. I was a picky eater.
Christmas 1968 - cut down a Christmas Tree on her and uncle Joe's property. So many times she let me sit at her vanity table in her bedroom and "try" perfume, lipstick, etc. when I was a little girl. The game room at the house in New York. I could go on and on. At my wedding in 1991. Rest in Peace, Aunt Vera. With Uncle Joe now. xx Christine Reining Sanders

“ My heart breaks that I was not there for you in your final moments. I love and miss you so much. After my mother passed you became my final link and I am happy for the times we shared. There will always be an empty spot in my heart because you are gone. I love you Aunt Vera!

“ I remember all those times I sat on the corner of your bed. We chatted away as you put on your make-up. I'll miss you.
